

Name: Megan Dahle
Occupation: Farmer/Businesswoman/Mother
Age: 45

Rebuilding the North State's economy, stopping the spread the coronavirus, and getting lives back to normal are my top priorities.

As a small business owner and farmer, I'm using my experience to help our economy recover by protecting existing jobs and working to create new ones.

My focus is on getting state government to pay attention to the unique needs of Shasta County and not impose one size fits all solutions that hurt the North State to help Los Angeles.

To help deal with COVID-19, I worked to improve the state's health care responses, pushed to add nurses and worked to prevent price gouging for food and essential supplies.

Making health care more affordable and ensuring we have access to care during these tough times is a priority.

The coronavirus showed America is dangerously dependent on China for prescription drugs. To fix that problem, I am working to ensure America make more of the pharmaceuticals our families need.

Continuing my efforts to improve forestry management and ensuring power lines are properly maintained will help prevent more deadly wildfires in Shasta County.

Increasing above ground water storage will help ensure Shasta County farms and families get the water they need.

Ensuring students learn the skills needed to succeed in tomorrow's economy and that parents can choose the best educational opportunities for their child is critical.

Firefighters and law enforcement officers support me. I hope you do too.
